

Benefits of Peer Programs

From teaching students who are deafblind the basics of having a conversation, to reading an experience book together, including peers will always enrich the learning environment.

- Creates a social network
- Makes connections between friends and in the community
- Provides a different perspective
- Teaches understanding and empathy
- Allows for mutual learning
- Provides more time for one-on-one learning
- mutually beneficial for all students involved
- Builds self-esteem, self-awareness, self-determination
- Improved reasoning and communication skills
- Increases readiness for post-school careers